PRISM, a summer arts program

Just as a prism reveals the colors that combine to make white light, Prism, a summer arts program from TAPIT/new works, offers students ages 10–12 an in-depth experience with key elements of the arts. Participants enjoy hands-on workshops in drama and stage movement, scriptwriting and digital photography taught by experienced artists/educators. At the end of the 2-week program, the students' work is showcased in a fun and friendly youth-centered presentation combining their acting, writing and photography.

Cost for the 2-week program is $200. All workshop supplies are provided. Students will need to bring a daily snack.

THE ORGANIZATION

Outreach and community connection are very important for TAPIT/new works. Along with its national and international touring work for general audiences, the 27 year-old company offers two other successful summer youth arts programs for younger children – Kaleidoscope and Bubbles.

Prism continues TAPIT/new works' commitment to excellence in arts education.
